b. Treatment includes anti-psychotics which block dopamine receptors

13. What is the monoamine hypothesis of depression?
   a. There is too little serotonin and norepinephrine in the brain of those who suffer from depression; There could also be a problem with MAO;
   b. Treatment:
      i. Selective Serotonin Reuptake Inhibitors (SSRIs)
      ii. Monoamine Oxidase Inhibitors (MAOIs)