Have you thought of his wife? Our ancient queen? How will she live, knowing, her husband will not return? Will she be executed too? Slaughtered in front of the public? Will handkerchiefs be dipped in her blood as well?
The awful Robespierre demanding Louis XVI to be killed. “…must die that the country may live.” You Robespierre, weren’t you the one that wanted to get rid of the death penalty? And Robespierre, what are you planning for the future? Any other hypocritical thoughts? Any ‘laws’ you want to make to later on change your mind about? Maybe it would be the right thing to have you executed, as you have changed your mind of execution.
The following, was an interview with the one and only Brissot, also known as the number leader of the Girondins. He was born on January 15th in 1754 in Chartres. He, as the rest of us, was against the king but also against his execution.

Are you afraid of being guillotined as well?
You never know. You never know with such an awful society but would I deserve it? Most definitely not. I do not believe I deserve it, so why should it happen?

Why do you think the Girondins lost against the Jacobins?
Well, as there was a vote and 34 voted for death with following conditions, 2 voted for life imprisonment in irons, 319 of the people voted for imprisonment till the end of the war and the winning vote of 361 people voted for execution with no following conditions showed that there were just 42 more people voted for Louis XVI to be executed. They had more “followers”, more people who agreed with Robespierre and his thoughts and opinion.

What could you have done to change the outcome?
I believe if we had longer the time to converse people to join the Girondins, instead of the Jacobins, to show them our opinions and thoughts that maybe more of the community would’ve joined us. But it is hard to say as many had a hatred to the king and wanted to see him suffer. France had to learn that hatred is allowed but watching a man suffer won’t make a difference. He was off of the thrown anyways killing him was unnecessary. Louis XVI didn’t want to rule France after he was kicked off of the throne he wouldn’t have done anything to get back on it. He would live in poverty as a normal man.

Do you have anything to say to the Jacobins?
I would like to say that, even though, I most definitely do not agree with the execution of the king, but I do hope and believe that there will be a bright future for France. It does not matter how many times you fall down but the amount of times you stand back up! Vive la France!
