The approaches that had been followed by the United States of America for achieving its positioning in the world as a superpower
The United States of America expanding its allies by force

Regarding the expanding of the US allies, there had been different agreements and partnerships that had been formulated between the states of America in different countries all over the world. For example, the relations between the other states of America and Australian had been expanded and being based on the US economic interests in the Asia-Pacific region, as well as the Australian and interests in protection from any unrest or instabilities that may arise in the region. On the other hand, the United States of America formulated strong defence ties with each of India, Thailand, Philippines, Vietnam, and other countries, for ensuring the expanding of the US positioning and strengths in different regions and destinations all over the world do not (Denmark, et al., 2013). On the other hand, the United States and foreign policies towards European and Latin American states had been focusing on the elimination of the communist and leftist ideologies and regimes. For an instance, the US government focused its military and economic aid to the fusions and rebels that arose in Latin American countries to support the revolutions to overthrow the leaders and change that their anti-American governments. In addition, the US government held many interventionist and make military actions towards countries like Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam, and others, in order to remove the anti-American governments as well as the instalment of pro-American governments. All of these efforts had been targeting the
