Humor is the motor of life, especially a student life. Daily life tends to be monotonous, which is why humor is definitely needed. With no sense of humor, life will become a real misery. And when it comes to school, using humor is highly recommended.

What would schools be like if humor was not permitted? A hell of boredom! And this is just not where a student would like to spend his mornings!

Apparently, humor is as required as seriousness. Over-seriousness would be displeasing and offensive, and then students would become stressed hence less productive. That is why humor is considered a remedy: having fun lightens the atmosphere, relieves stress and improves the mood, which is all beneficial for your health. Another good thing about a humorous ambiance is that recharging yourself with good laughs and being surrounded by cheering people gets you an optimistic attitude. On top of it, having fun with your classmates will surely improve your social life. Therefore educators should allow humor in classrooms and kid with their students while studying as to motivate them and draw their attention.

In one way or another, humor is a great tool to get rid of boredom and cope with everyday routines and life pressures.