6. Where the mind is without fear,
and the head is held high;
Where knowledge is free;
Where the world has not been
broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls;
where worlds come out from the depth of truth
Into that heaven of freedom,
my Father, Let my country awake.

(Rabindranatha Tagore) (6)

7. 'Where the mind is without fear,
and the head is held high;
Where knowledge is free;
Where the world has not been
broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls;
where worlds come out from the depth of truth
Into that heaven of freedom,
my Father, Let my country awake.'

(boom.th.m.k.royal) (7)

8. 'Where the mind is without fear,
and the head is held high;
Where knowledge is free;
Where the world has not been
broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls;
where worlds come out from the depth of truth
Into that heaven of freedom,
my Father, Let my country awake.'

(boom.th.m.k.royal) (7)