depending on the timing of the reinforcement, the number of actions needed and of course the type of behaviour needed to induce the reinforcement. Skinner, influenced by both Pavlov and Thorndike, contributed largely to the field of Behaviourist Psychology.

Reference List

