Illinois as his father have moved houses again. He gets a job at a village store and sleeps in the back of the shop. He also learns basic math and gets involved in a local debating society. In the autumn 1883 Abraham Lincon has been given Deputy County Surveyor. At this time he starts law studies. After this he also gets involved in politics. In 1842 Abraham Lincon marries Mary Todd in Springfield on the 4th of November. On the 10th of March 1846 Abraham Lincon son is born his name is Edward Baker Lincon.

In 1847 Abraham Lincon and his family move to Washington DC into a boarding house. In 1851 Abraham Lincon father dies. A few years later Lincon delivers a speech on slavery in New Haven. At this time Lincon has lot to do with the white house and in 1860 he is elected as President. One year later the civil war is well under way and the north is losing a lot of soldiers. In 1864 Abraham Lincon is re-elected as president and shortly after the civil war ends as the south surrenders. After the civil war ends the south wants to get revenge on Abraham Lincon. In 1865 a man named John Wilkes Booth makes plots to kidnap Lincon he is unsuccessful, as Lincon did not go to the soldiers home where Booth was planning to kidnap him. A few months later Booth is now planning to kill Abraham Lincon. He makes plans to kill Lincon and for his conspirator George Atzerodt to kill the vice president. He plans to carry out the assassination at Fords Theater where Lincon and the vice president are going to watch the play “Our American Cousin”. On the night of 14th of April 1865 President Lincon arrives at 8 o clock and Booth at 9:30pm. George Atzerodt gets drunk and goes on a pub crawl through Washington. As Lincon enters the theater all of the audience stands up and the orchestra plays “Hail to the Chief”. Booth had gotten to the theater on a hired mare. Booth had also brought with him a knife, two colt revolvers and a six-inch Derringer. All of the guns were loaded. At 10:15pm at a high point of comedy Booth stepped into where Lincon was sitting and fired his Derringer into the back of Lincon’s skull. Booth quickly slides down a curtain and onto the stage fracturing his leg and yells “Ever thus to Tyrants the has South has been Avenged”. After this Booth runs out of the theater and rides his horse to Maryland seeking refuge with his co conspirator Herold. By this time Lincon has been taken to the nearest house possible, which is
