Conclusions:

- Settler racism
- Dispossession of indigenous land and livestock
- Colonial frontier violence, some with genocidal intent to eliminate indigenous populations;
- Radicalised land divisions
- Land dispossession and movement control and extend control over black labour, for white gain (labour especially important after mineral revolution)
- Colonial legal order in which black people had no rights, while whites had monopoly over land and violence