Nervous factors:

- Sympathetic stimulation increases the metabolic activity of the heart which has a strong vasodilator effect on the coronaries through the release of vasodilator metabolites.

- Parasympathetic vagal stimulation decreases the heart rate and metabolic activity thus it decreases coronary blood flow.