‘Postman’ believes childhood is disappearing because children are gaining similar rights to adults, children’s traditional games are disappearing and there are growing similarities between children and adults as children are now dressing more like adults and are using the internet and social networking which is revealing them to the adult world.

9. In what ways does childhood still exist?
‘Opie’ argues that childhood isn’t disappearing and she thinks this as there has been a long study of children’s games rhymes and songs.

What is ‘Toxic childhood’? What is ‘paranoid parenting’?
Toxic childhood is the cultural changes that have damaged children’s physical, emotional and intellectual development, This is due to things such as junk food, computer games, irregular sleep patterns,parents working long hours etc.