Consequences of the American-Philippinean war

Consequences for the USA
- 4,000 American soldiers were killed
- 1902: Investigations on crimes of war were made, no one was found guilty
- Big conflict among the citizens of America
  - Many people against the colonialization because the USA itself were colonies before and fought for their independence
  - Philippines already declared their independence
  - Many people positive about the colonialization
  - gain of the military power of the USA
  - Increase trade with Asian countries and Philippines
- 1918 (WW1): Philippines sent 25,000 soldiers to support USA
- WW2: War with Japan on Phillipines
  - Airdrop of nuclear bombs (in Hiroshima and Nagasaki)
  - 300,000 Japanese soldiers died
  - 60,000 American soldiers died
  - 100,000 Philippinean soldiers died
  - 1,000,000 civilian victims

Consequences for the Philippines
- 1,000,000 Filipinos killed (that was 20% of population)
  - 20,000 Philippinean soldiers (2%)
  - 980,000 civilians (98%)
  - Genocide
- Fights kept on for more than a decade after USA announced end of war
- Islands remained American colony until 1946
- 1902: USA abolished old Spanish laws
- 1902: Improvement in quality of infrastructure of Philippines
- 1902: Improvement in quality of education of Philippines