Jewish Immigration to Israel

• In 1948 Israel was declared its own country after it broke apart from Palestine.

• The Majority of people who were still remaining in displaced persons camps were sent to the new State of Israel to live when it was formed.

• There are now 8.2 million Jewish residents in Israel, making it the highest populated Jewish country.