nor of the Austrian provinces of Bosnia-Herzegovina, with a poisoned dagger in the past.

- Vaso Cubrilovic & Cvjetko Popović- Students in Sarajevo. Joined the cause when Danilo Illic recruited him and his friend, Cvjetko Popović.
- Nedjelko Cabrinovic- According to the authorities, one of the three assassins sent from the Serbian Intelligence to assassinate Franz Ferdinand. Believed to have Tuberculosis.
- Danilo Illic- Recruited Vaso Cubrilovic and Cvjetko Popović to join the cause. An old friend of Gavrilo Princip.
- Trifun Grabez- Known for his former offence of striking his teacher when he was 17 years old and suffering from tuberculosis. According to the authorities, one of the three assassins sent from the Serbian Intelligence to assassinate Franz Ferdinand.

Our newspaper dispatched a couple of those in the company, including myself to have a look at the interrogation that was scheduled for Princip. The authority denied the team access to the records of the interrogation, but we got one line out of police before the door shut in our faces:

The authority's interrogation proved that three men from Serbia, Dragutin Dimitrijevic, Milan Ciganovic, and Major Voja Tankosic, had organised the plot.

Is this real or just a lie told? Can we really believe the words of men who have caused all this trouble and sadness?

Us at The Austria-Hungarian Times believe it utter nonsense. Serbia, although not close to us in relations of friendship, would not take such drastic measures to ensure our grief. If what has been stated above is true, we expect that it will lead to Austria-Hungary taking drastic measures ourselves to ensure their grief as our own method of vengeance.

But what we do believe is that Gavrilo Princip, the Black Hand Gang and whoever was involved in this cold-blooded assassination were immoral imbeciles. More than just a few assume that the assassination was to form a Balkan state consisting of only Serbia and Bosnia. Can this be true? Was a precious human life taken away just because of some irrational hoping of a group of lunatics? To those who had plotted this murder alongside them, I would like to ask: Did you seriously believe that this was the solution to all the situations as problems? Was this the best course of action you could have taken?

This issue has been a major talk in all surrounding countries of Austria-Hungary, and many believe that war may be the consequence of this disastrous event. If it were to be true that Serbia was behind the assassinations, we do not doubt that war may be waged against Serbia and their neighboring countries. But although we do not doubt it, we hope against all obvious evidences that Serbia is not behind this accident. A war is a catastrophic event and many lives will be lost. As a proud civilian of the country, I want to emphasise on the behalf of all the other civilians that the fact that war is not the answer, and maybe a peaceful and a reasonable outcome can be reached; one that does not include the bloodshed of lives on both sides of the war. After all, a country is not just made up of a few insurgents, but of many innocent civilians as well as the government. If a mere reporter can come to this decision, I am sure that the more powerful authorities will be able to consider this factor, and act logically.

No matter what we predict of in future, as citizens of great Austria-Hungary, I think we can all agree on one thing: Archduke Franz Ferdinand did not deserve to die in a cold-blooded murder.

Archduke Franz Ferdinand was a great man, and will live in the hearts of all those in Austria-Hungary. We pray and send our condolences to all of Austria-Hungary.

By killing one great man, filthy Princip had killed the heart and soul of a million more.
