Blames Germans for war, forces Germany to pay damages (reparations) to nations. League to rule German colonies until deemed ready for independence. Treaty of Versailles created feelings of bitterness of both sides. German people feel bitter and betrayed after taking blame for war. America never ratifies Treaty of Versailles. Many americans oppose League of Nations and involvement with Europe. Some former colonies express anger over not winning independence.