What does drugs and alcohol have to do with teen partying?

• When the influence of drugs and alcohol are mixed with crazy teenagers who would do anything for a good time, many things could go wrong.

• Teens these days are willing to risk their lives and the lives of others to get a “high” feeling, and when alcohol and drugs are involved, they want to get an even better “high” because their judgment is tempered with.

• Parties don’t always have to be a bad thing, if you are responsible and don’t affiliate yourself with drugs and alcohol, you can still have a great time and be sober to enjoy it.
