Determine which of the four levels of measurement (nominal, ordinal, interval, ratio) is most appropriate.

Ranks of cars evaluated by a consumer's magazine - CORRECT ANSWERS -The ordinal level of measurement is most appropriate because the data can be ordered, but differences cannot be found or are meaningless.

A study is conducted to measure children's growth rates without any treatment applied to the children. What best classifies this study? - CORRECT ANSWERS Observational study