

The Expansion of American Industry

I. The Bessemer Process

In 1856, Henry Bessemer designed a more efficient way to produce steel. This procedure is known as the Bessemer process. This process makes it easier and cheaper to remove impurities. The Bessemer process also made possible the mass production of steel.