

God's love Delight

"To love is something I was afraid to do but there is something different about you. You made me do something I swore not to do. You made me fall in love with you."

I was asked by my teacher to go on a computer shop and print some of her important papers. All of a sudden, Daniel entered too; maybe he will do printing also. After a year of not seeing him, I just ignored him. Jayson, the proprietor, didn't accept my 100 peso bill because he doesn't have coins so he told me to pay the 9 pesos the other day. The next day when I'm about to pay, Jason told me "Daniel paid it yesterday." Then in confusion, I tickled pink.

It all started with simple smiles. I was so happy. You were my first love. You were my favorite masterpiece. Every time I look at you my heart misses a beat. I was so in love. But how could you say you love me and don't love me then?

The first time I saw you I felt the excitement of seeing you again. That beautiful feeling of knowing somebody who's in love with you the way you do. It is sweet

But time really changed us...

You asked your freedom so I gave it to you. If only I know I'll suffer this much, I should have not given it to you. But what I feel is true love, so I gave you what you want even if it means letting you go.

I take my path and you take yours. It's really different now. Our happy reverie is perfectly etched in my memory and it can still manage to make me smile. Past is a good place to visit and not to stay. I deem I have moved on.

A girl's love is like a diamond, it's precious. It's like the deepest ocean, it's fathomless. So be careful with her heart, it's like a glass. It's fragile; difficult to bring back all the pieces again.

The last time I saw you, you were with her. You are both smiling. That smile I wasn't able to see for many years reflects in your cute eyes. You didn't notice me, staring at you. As I close the curtain, I told myself that I am happy for you, for the both of you.

No regrets. I am happy now. I learned that only when we fall in love we will know the grandeur and natural beauty of love. Love has an immense power that turned us upside down. Love transforms us to emerge as a better person. It is not love if it means losing our self. It is not love if it is against each other's will. You were once a part of me, forever you will be.

Daniel means God's love delight.