

Why can't a heterozygous organism ever display a recessive characteristic?

Incourse they always carry one dominant X