Bonjour! - Introductory French

01 Leçon 01: Introduction History of the French Language

Lesson 0.04 - Accents

Introduction

Five different kinds of accent marks are used in written French. In many cases, an accent changes the sound of the letter to which it is added. In others, the accent has no effect on pronunciation. Accents in French never indicate stress (which always falls on the last syllable). The following table lists every French accent mark and the letters with which it can be combined:

accent	letters used	examples
acute accent (accent aigu)	é only	é l é phant: elephant grave accent (accent grave)	è, à, ù	fièvre: fever, là: there, où: where circumflex (accent circonflexe)	â, ê, î, ô, û	gâteau: cake, être: to be, île: island, chômage: unemployment, dû: past participle of devoir
diaeresis (tréma)	ë, ï, ü, ÿ ^[1]	Noël: Christmas, maïs: corn, aigüe: acute(fem) ^[2]	o.uk
cedilla (cédille)	ç only	Noël: Christmas, maïs: corn, aigüe: acute(fem) ^[2] français: French	-

- 1. ↑ Note: The letter ÿ is only used in Vr. lare words, mostiv old town names like L'Haÿ-Les-Roses, a Paris surburb. This letter it nonounced like ï.
- 2. ↑ Note: A of the Veiling reform of the Che charesis indicating gu is not a digraph on words finishing in gue is now placed on the standard (AKA "académie française" French): aigüe and not aiguë, cigüe and not ciguë, ambigüe and not ambiguë (acute(fem), conium, ambiguous). Since this reform is relatively recent and mostly unknown to laypeople, the two spellings can be used interchangeably.

Acute accent - Accent aigu

The acute accent (French, accent aigu) is the most common accent used in written French. It is only used with the letter e and is always pronounced /e/.

One use of the accent aigu is to form the past participle of regular -er verbs.

infinitive	past participle
aimer, to love	aim é , loved
regarder, to watch	regardé, watched

Another thing to note is if you are unsure of how to translate certain words into English from French, and the word begins with \acute{e} , replace that with the letter s and you will occasionally get the English word, or an approximation thereof:

A tréma (French for dieresis) is also applied: ä, ë, ï, ö, ü, ÿ. Two combined letters are used: æ and æ, and a cedilla is used on the c to make it sound like an English s: ç.

G: Definite and indefinite articles

The definite article

In English, the definite article is always "the".

Unlike English, the definite article is used to talk about something in a general sense, a general statement or feeling about an idea or thing.

In French, the definite article is changed depending on the noun's:

- 1. Gender
- 2. Plurality

[^] Professeur can be shortened to prof (in a familiar context). While the long form, professeur, is always masculine, even when referring to female teachers, prof can be either masculine or feminine. (le prof - the (male) teacher)

^{&#}x27;^ In this book, the definite article will come before a noun in vocabulary charts. If the definite article is I due to elision, (m) will follow a noun to denote a masculine gender and (f) will follow a noun to denote a feminine gender.

détester to hate $(mon) ami(e)^{[12]}$ (my) friend

- ^ Finir and attendre are not -er verbs. You will learn their conjugation in a later lesson.
- ^ Mon is often substituted for ma when the following word begins with a vowel. Thus, mon amie is used instead of ma amie, while ma bonne amie would be okay.

osition, a direct object is a noun that receives the action of

- Il jette la balle à Jacques. He throws the ball to Jack.
- Il jette la balle à Marie. He throws the ball to Mary.
- Il jette la balle à Jacques et Marie. He throws the ball to Jack and Mary.

Lui and leur are indirect object pronouns. They replace nouns referring to people and mean to him/her and to them respectively.

- lui replaces a singular masculine or feminine indirect object referring to a human
- leur replaces a plural masculine or feminine indirect object referring to a human

An example follows:

- Il lui jette la balle. He throws the ball to him.
- Il lui jette la balle. He throws the ball to her.
- Il leur jette la balle. He throws the ball to them.

Whether lui means to him or to her is given by context.

In English, "He throws him the ball" is also said, and means the same thing.

When used with the direct object pronouns le, la, and les, lui and leur come after those pronouns.

■ Il la lui jette. - He throws it to him.

■ Il vous voit. - He sees you.

Indirect Object Replacement

- Il me l'appelle. He calls to me.
- Il te le jette. He throws it to you.
- Il nous le jette. He throws it to us.
- Il vous le jette. He throws it to you.

Exercises

You may also wish to talk about what housework you do.

Lesson 1.07 - Weather

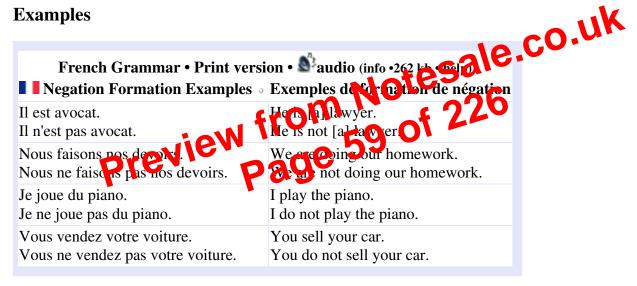

G: Standard Negation

In order to say that one did not do something, the ne ... pas construction must be used. The ne is placed before the verb, while the pas is placed after.

Formation and Rules

- Simple negation is done by wrapping ne...pas around the verb.
 - Je ne vole pas. I do not steal.
- In a perfect tense, ne...pas wraps around the auxillary verb, not the participle.
 - Je n'ai pas volé. I have not stolen.
- When an infinitive and conjugated verb are together, ne...pas usually wraps around the conjugated verb.
 - Je ne veux pas voler. I do not want to steal.
- ne pas can also go directly in front of the infinitive for a different meaning.
 - Je veux ne pas voler. I want not to steal.
- ne goes before any pronoun relating to the verb it affects.
 - Je ne le vole pas. I am not stealing it.

Examples

Negation of Indefinite Articles

The indefinite articles un, une, and des change to de (or d') when negating a sentence.

- J'ai un livre. I have a book.
- Je n'ai pas de livre. I don't have any book.
- J'ai des livres. I have some books.
- Je n'ai pas de livres. I don't have any books.

Examples

Il est belge.. He is Belgian. Il n'est pas belge. He is not Belgian. Nous lisons un livre. We read a book.

Nous ne lisons pas de livre. We do not read a book.

G: Aller

The verb aller is translated to to go. It is irregularly conjugated (it does not count as a regular -er verb).

Formation

In the present indicative, aller is conjugated as follows:

Fr	ench V	erb • Pri	nt version	n • 峰 audio r 🏮 to go	(info •327 kb	you go they go (masc. or mixed)
		Singula	r		10gg	6

third person	elle va	ell vah	she goes	118 VOIII	eei vonn	(masc. or mixed)
	on va	ohn vah	one goes	elles vont	ell vohn	they go (fem.)

Usage

There is no present progressive tense in French, so aller in the present indicative is used to express both I go and I am going.

Aller must be used with a place and cannot stand alone.

The preposition \dot{a} , meaning in, at, or to, is used, followed by the place.

■ Tu vas à l'école? - You're going to school.

Remember that \grave{a} le contracts to au and \grave{a} les contracts to aux.

■ Je vais au stade. - I'm going to the stadium.

Instead of a preposition and place, you can use the pronoun y, meaning there. Y comes before the verb. Remember that aller must be used with a place (there or a name) when indicating that you are going somewhere, even if a place wouldn't normally be given in English.

- J'y vais. I'm going there.
- Tu y vas. You're going there.
- Nous y allons. We're going there.

The negative form of aller with the y pronoun has both the verb and pronoun enclosed between ne and pas.

■ Il n'y va pas. - He's not going there.

Futur Proche

The structure aller + infinitive is used to say that something is going to happen in the near future.

- Il va pleuvoir demain. It's going to rain tomorrow.
- Il va faire froid. It's going to be cold.

Remember that the negative goes around the conjugated verb.

■ Il ne va pas pleuvoir demain. - It's not going to rain tomorrow.

Idioms

- Allons-y ahlonzee Let's go! (impératif)
- Ca va? How are you? (lit: It goes?)
- On y va! Let's get going!
- On y va? Should we go?

Liaison

Votesale.co.uk Usually, whenever a vowel sound comes after z by or z, the usually) nonounced z and z change to a sharp z sound and link to the next syllable. This process is called lia con.) However, since allons and allez begins with vowels, nous all z N pronounced z have z and z vous allez is pronounced z vozahlay. In order to have a pleating at \hat{c} chair sound, two line on should not go consecutively. There is therefore no liaison in allons \hat{a} when it comes right after no is and citez \hat{a} when it comes after vous.

- In the phrase Vous allez à l'école?, vous allez à is pronounced vouzahlay ah.
- In the phrase vous et Marie allez à l'école?", allez à is pronounced ahlayzah.

le livre de Marie	la voiture de Marie	sa voiture
the book of Marie	the car of Marie	her car
les livres de Marie	les voitures de Marie	ses voitures
the books of Marie	the cars of Marie	her cars

Whether the third person singular possessive adjectives son, sa and ses are his or her is indicated by context.

■ Elle lit son livre. - She reads her book.

Liaison and Adjective Changes

Liaison occurs when mon, ton, and son are followed by a vowel.

- Il est mon ami. He is my friend.
- Il est ton ami. He is your friend.
- Il est son ami. He is his/her friend.

Liaison also occurs with all plural forms, since they all end in s.

- Ils sont mes amis. They are my friends.

Mon, ton, and son are used before a feminine singular noun that are with a vowel or silent h. Elision (to m', t', or s') does not occur.

• Elle est mon amie. - She is my fidno.

G: -ger Verbs

-ger verbs are regular -er verbs that are also stem changing. The most common -ger verb is manger. For manger and all other regular -ger verbs, the stem change is adding an e after the g. This only applies in the nous form. In this case, the change is made to preserve the soft g pronunciation rather than the hard g that would be present if the e were not included.

G: Simple Future of Irregular Verbs

The simple future of irregular verbs, like the passé composé of many irregular verbs, must be memorized. What makes this somewhat easy is that verbs with similar en in g., ar mally have similar future stems.

For example, the future stem of the verb year Sylendr-. Verbs life vehic devenir, revenir) have a very similar stem (deviendr-, reviendr-).

Affirmative

Negative

The negative imperative is formed by placing the imperative between "ne" and "pas/jamais/rien/etcetera."

Ne parle pas! (Don't speak!)

Ne regarde jamais le soleil! (Never look at the sun!)

G: Adverbs

French adverbs, like their English counterparts, are used to modify adjectives, other adverbs, and verbs or clauses. They do not display any inflection; that is, their form does not change to reflect their precise role, nor any characteristics of what they modify.

Formation

In French, as in English, most adverbs are derived from adjectives. In most cases, this is done by adding the suffix -ment ("-ly") to the adjective's feminine singular form. For example, the feminine singular form of lent ("slow") is lente, so the corresponding adverb is lentement ("slowly"); similarly, heureux \rightarrow heureusement ("happy" \rightarrow "happily").

As in English, however, the adjective stem is sometimes modified to accommodate the suffix: Audio: Native French Speaker

- If the adjective ends in an i, then -ment is added to the masculine singular (de all) form, rather than to the feminine singular form:
 - $vrai \rightarrow vraiment$ ("real" \rightarrow "really")
 - $poli \rightarrow poliment$ ("polite" \rightarrow "politela")
- If the adjective ends in -ant or -the the corresponding tolve bends in -amment or -emment, respectively:
 - constant → president ("constant" "constantly")
 - $re ent \rightarrow récemment$ " $ce_1 t \rightarrow recently"$
- Some adjectives make other changes:
 - précis → précisément ("precise" → "precisely")
 - $gentil \rightarrow gentiment$ ("nice" \rightarrow "nicely")

Some adverbs are derived from adjectives in completely irregular fashions, not even using the suffix -ment:

- $bon \rightarrow bien$ ("good" \rightarrow "well")
- $mauvais \rightarrow mal$ ("bad" \rightarrow "badly")
- $meilleur \rightarrow mieux$ ("better"-adjective \rightarrow "better"-adverb)
- $pire \rightarrow pis$ ("worse"-adjective \rightarrow "worse"-adverb)

And, as in English, many common adverbs are not derived from adjectives at all:

■ ainsi ("thus" or "thusly")

Placement

The placement of French adverbs is almost the same as the placement of English adverbs. Audio: Native French Speaker

An adverb that modifies an adjective or adverb comes before that adjective or adverb:

■ complètement vrai ("completely true")

■ The indirect object pronouns do not agree with the past participle like the direct object pronouns do. When me, te, nous, and vous are used in a perfect tense, the writer must decide whether they are used as direct or indirect object pronouns. This is done by looking at the verb and seeing what type of action is being performed.

The bread is given by the man (direct). Pierre gets the given apple (indirect).

The Pronoun Y

Indirect Object Pronoun - to it, to them

The French pronoun y is used to replace an object of a prepositional phrase introduced by à.

- Je réponds aux questions. J' y réponds.
- I respond to the questions. I respond to them.

Note that lui and leur, and not y, are used when the object refers to a person or persons.

Replacement of Places - there

The French pronoun y replaces a prepositional phrase referring to a place that begins with any preoposition except de (for which en is used).

Note that en, and not y is used when the object is of the preparity 5.2.

Idioms

Ca y est | It's poly!

J'y suis! Pl get it!

En

En

Note how we say Je veux du pain to say 'I want some bread'? But what happens when we want to say 'I want some' without specifying what we want? In these cases, we use the pronoun 'en'. As well, 'en' can mean 'of it' when 'it' is not specified. For instance, instead of saying J'ai besoin de l'argent, if the idea of money has already been raised, we can just say 'J'en ai besoin'. This is because what en does is replace du, de la or des when there is nothing after it.

Like with 'me', 'te' and other pronouns, en (meaning 'some') comes before the verb.

Tu joues du piano? Non, je n'en joue pas	Do you play piano? No, I don't play it.
Vous prenez du poisson? Oui, j'en prends.	Are you having fish? Yes, I'm having some.
Vous avez commandé de l'eau? Oui, nous en avons commandé.	Did you order some water? Yes, we ordered some.

When these adjectives appear before an indefinite plural noun, they will change the article associated with it:

Changes in meaning

Notesale.co.uk When grand goes before a noun, it means great However, when it goes after the noun, it means tall. Likewise, when pauvre goes before a noun, it means taff funde. When it comes after the noun, it means financially poor. This works most of the the, but be careful, "pauvre" can mean "financially poor" even when used before the nouns.

Beau, nouveau, and vieux

These three adjectives behave differently when placed before a singular masculine noun starting with a vowel or silent h:

Masc. Sing. Cons. Masc. Sing Vowel Fem. Sing. (all) Fem. Plural Masc. Possessive adjectives

In English, we say "her car" when the owner of the car is a woman and "his car" when the owner is a man. In French, they say "sa voiture" even if the owner is a male. It is not the owner who determines the gender of the possessive adjective but the object owned.

The pronoun on

The subject pronoun on is similar to the English personal pronoun one, except that it is not so formal, and is more common. It has a number of uses:

^{*} Tu is informal and used only with well-known acquaintances. In case of unknown persons you have to use the polite form Vous. A good example, to explain that is the following: If two business acquaintances meet another, they say Vous. If they later fall in love, they say Tu. When unsure, it is better to say "yous." Also, grammatically, even the singular form of "vous" behaves as though it were a plural, so even if you are addressing only one person, you would still use verbal grammar consistent with addressing multiple people, similar to English (as in "you are", "you [all] are", "they are.") Nevertheless, the adjectives or past participles are declined according to the true number of the referring pronoun.

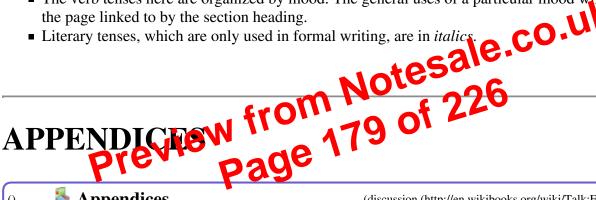

Verbs

Due to their specificity, minor verb pages are only included in French/Grammar/Print version.

General notes

- The masculine form and feminine form of the third person are conjugated in exactly the same manner. Instead of mentioning both, only the masculine form will be used for the sake of brevity. One may assume that il includes elle and ils includes elles unless the context clearly indicates otherwise.
- In tables showing the endings or conjugations of verbs, an accent mark is shown without a letter below it indicates that the accent mark is placed above the last letter of the stem.
- Derivatives of a verb are conjugated in the same manner as that verb. For instance, devenir and revenir follow the same patterns as venir. In this appendix, when the conjugation of the root verb is given, it is assumed that the reader will know that derivative verbs are similarly conjugated.
- The verb tenses here are organized by mood. The general uses of a particular mood will be covered in

Slang

Notes on how to use slang

Foreign speakers

It is important to note that, as a foreigner, your use of slang will often be received as cute or funny, depending greatly upon your overall fluency in spoken French. To understand this, think about how it would sound to you if a foreigner—with a strong accent and odd rhythm of speech—came up to you and said "Dude, what a sketchy-ass hater that bizz-natch was, I totally was just like the book of fo-sheezy". Therefore, no matter how much slang you use in your native language. Improved use of slang in French (proportionally to your level of fluency) will also lime to which you are personised and giggled at by Slang: consistency & the from

To use slang efficiently, it is important to maintain a consistency of style. Mixing styles might sound like saying: "Thy face, it is quite finely rawkin".

- Avoid vous unless a plural is necessary.
- Avoid subject-verb inversion in questions. Use rather question formations where there is no inversion or 'est-ce que', only the raised tone at the end of the sentence. When doing this with interrogatives (qui, quand, comment, etc.), place them at the end of the sentence; i.e. "On va bouffer quand?"

Translating 'fuck'

The English-language term 'fuck' is exceptional as it can serve as noun, verb, adjective, exclamation, and others. There is no such equivalent usage of any word in the French language. Therefore the translation of 'fuck' into French depends on the corresponding part of speech.

Examples

noun

"He's a great fuck" = "C'est un bon coup"

"He is such a fuck(er)" = "C'est un pauvre type/enfoiré/enculé/connard/salaud" (insert any insult)

"He's such a fuck-up" = "C'est un pauvre con/un raté/un loser"

In French How do I Make a sentence Imperative?

The imperative is used in tu, nous and vous forms; the nous and vous forms are the same as the indicative in both regular and irregular verbs (except the 3 irregulars shown below). The tu form is also the same unless it comes from an infinitive that ends in -er, in which case the tu form would drop the 's' (eg: parles becomes parle).

The infinitive can also be used as the imperative, but only for impersonal commands, eg: mettre la ceinture.

Both covers must also clearly and legibly identify you as the publisher of these copies. The front cover must present the full title with all words of the title equally prominent and visible.
