

perspective. You can compare the written drafts with the initial outlines. You can also give your draft to the colleague and supervisors in your organization. Their feedback will help us improving our writing. Similarly, we can post our writing in a various writing center and these kinds of writing center generally provides feedbacks regarding where you need the most work or where you writing is and where it should be.

If you follow this guide, you'll find that the writer's block is simply a minor speedbump that you can easily overcome and remain in your creativity. Enjoy your writing.

Works Cited

Creek, M. (n,d). Tips for getting organized and coping with writer's block. UC Davis University

Writing Programs. Retrieved from <http://tenzel.ucdavis.edu/thesis/writblk.html>

Red, P. (1986). Writer's block: A crisis in business writing. Thesis Digitization Project, 27-32.

Retrieved from

[https://scholarworks.lib.csusb.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?referer=https://www.google.com/
&httpsredir=1&article=1428&context=etd-project](https://scholarworks.lib.csusb.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?referer=https://www.google.com/&httpsredir=1&article=1428&context=etd-project)