The below image shows what the operating system of Blackberry 10 looks like on the Blackberry phones. This operating system is only available on the Blackberry.

The below image shows what operating systems on Nokia phone used to look like before smart phones. This operating system was subjected to this Nokia phone only.

Mobile phones and the operating systems have come a long way from when phones first become available. For example I have placed an Image of the first phone and an image of the newest phone's (Android, IOS). As you can see from the below images mobile phones have come a long way from when they were first introduced. Technology has come so far that we are now able to make these devices that we call our mobile phones.
