

The Thousand Night and One Night

The sun finally disappear below the horizon, the stars started to show up. The feelings of night air, the darkness continue to envelope us. It's the good night, the moment where peace finally kissed our soul as we lay in bed.

Look at the mirror, comb your hair, reflection says you are beautiful. The most attractive human being captivated the heart of the king. The highness stare at the most seductive woman, the king, vowed to him and you will reign. The ruler of the kingdom who serves everyone except to only one. To be with only one, selfish over someone the kind of cruel love.

Stormy night, lightning across the window, candle fell on the wooden floors, it was a bad night. Compulsive feelings started to grow up, the keen eyes who caught the untold love will punish the piteous poison love. The strong uncontrollable emotions swallowed the king, and queen will faced the end.

Blood is thicker than water but the sword already hit up the descender. Reddish hot liquid flowing over the body while everyone is watching. No one move, speechless, now who is next because even though you get down to the ruthless king he will still slap you with his weapons.

Another night, another story keep on telling and you will set free. The ruler will listen to the epic adventures, lost love, well played romance with half evil smile. Obsession over the poisonous women, strong and intense feelings of demented king, standstill and you will be free.

Eyes to eyes, the king with mischievous grin while the queen is trembling, pale faced, bathe in own sweat while keep on talking. Merciful king, until she finish the suspenseful moment.

Every night and another night as she continue the endless tale, as she convinced the king for the long life. As yesternight was a bad dream and tomorrow night will bring peacefulnight, before dawn as sunlight showed up and she will be set free.

JULIE PANGANIBAN