

THE EYE

The eye is a complex sense organ, whose functions is to receive light by which an animal perceives and distinguishes objects in its immediate environment. The eye is located in a socket in the skull called orbit. The orbit provides protection against physical damage and has a fatty layer lining that provides further protection as a shock absorber against mechanical injury.

