

Explanation: On 6 Aug, 1945 Americans in their mad fury dropped two atom bombs on Japan. They behaved like wild beasts. Who kill animals to satisfy their hunger? The Americans killed innocent people in blind rage. They did not consider the human rights. None was saved by the deadly fight of the Americans.

Stanza 6

But how much great were they
Who bore the pains of black day?
Ashes are not merely the waste
They can really create the great

Explanation: The people who died on the day were really great. It was indeed a black day for them when they faced the destruction of atom bombs. They were burnt so entirely that even their ashes could be not found. But in spite of facing such a huge destruction, the people of Japan rose again and became the world economic power.
