QUESTION: DESCRIBE A RIVER THAT YOU HAVE SEEN

YOU SHOULD SAY:

Where is it?

What can people do there?

How does it change in each season?

SAMPLE ANSWER:

I like going to the Han River which moves through Seoul City, Korea. Individuals appreciate doing open air exercises there. I went there a couple of years to swim. There is a major pool in the riverside park. In the late spring, individuals appreciate yachting, fly skiing on the water and playing basketball, skating and riding their bikes along the waterway banks. There are bunches of cherry bloom along the riverside as well and they blossom in spring. Individuals partake in the cherry blooms. In the event that the cherry blooms are in blossom around evening time with the streetlamps radiating on petals, they blow my mind. In the colder time of year season, the stream freezes up and individuals go ice fishing. The stream has various features each season particularly on siestas when there are incredible firecrackers around evening time. Despite the fact that the sound of the firecrackers resembles the blast of guns, it is as yet an excellent sight.
