

Oh, I'm sure that the dog will either be barking or jumping around when you arrive. Juanita will be either absent or late.

COORDINATING CONJUNCTIONS- a conjunction placed between words, phrases, clauses, or sentences of equal rank, e.g. and, but, or.

These are the most common conjunctions, and also some of the most common words in the English language

For- Examples: Carl decided to act as president, for his father's absence was taking a toll on the company.

We have decided to terminate our contract, for you have clearly not honoured it.

She won three awards, for her performance in that film was remarkable.

And- Examples:

Jay watched TV and waited for his girlfriend to come home.

My mom works at the supermarket and my dad is a fruit farmer.

Save as much money as you can and you will see great rewards.

Nor- Examples:

You should not assume she is ill, nor should you suggest she is insane.

Neither men nor women are immune to cancer.

I am not a fan of extreme political views- neither conservative nor liberal

But- Examples:

I don't like playing soccer but maybe you can teach me.

She never called me from work but that doesn't mean she wasn't there