

hope these two operators floor the floor value of 1. 7.

To take input in python you need to write let 's say this is the variable name. input function works here so let me give you example also okay so let us not convert it into in for the first time and let us try to print a and then print type of a. This is the first lesson in our playlist. If you want to watch the entire playlist there is a link given in the description below. The entire playlist will be available to you soon we are we are putting you very videos of python every day right so python is itself an amazing programming language.
