

Reality of Pakistan Crisis |

There are many other countries which are more poor than Pakistan Still why pakistan get more foreign aid ? See , the situation that Pakistan is facing at this particular time it has never been stuck in such a situation before. In just one year, Pakistan 's currency has fallen by 40% and reached 267 Pakistani rupees. Pakistan realized that the US had no friends in South Asia and it needed someone to control the Soviet Union. It saw an opportunity and presented itself as a friend of the US in exchange for which it received foreign aid. However, until the money was received, Pakistan 's economic condition had deteriorated significantly. When the US sends its army to fulfill its interests, it puts its citizens in danger. If anything happens to them, the US has to bear the entire cost. Instead of traditional wars , the US trains different militant groups provides them with weapons and funding. Pakistan has become a training center for this entire game and the Pakistani military has set up this training center.

Pakistan started using this money , centers and Mujahideen for Kashmir. By 1964, the foreign aid received by Pakistan amounted to 5 % of its GDP. Despite this, the Pakistani people and government were not happy with the aid received from the US and their involvement in the Afghanistan war. Pakistan used the money it received for its economy rather than for US 's war on terror. Pakistan 's economy is aid and loan-dependent. It lends money at higher than market interest rates. It provides the loan for a 30-year term but only for approximately 15 years. China makes money from the country by conducting business. The clauses stipulate that if the loan is not repaid, the land will belong to China. Pakistan is delighted to receive as much money as it wants from China. The IMF has repeatedly advised Pakistan to stay away from CPEC. Even if a new leader attempts to correct the situation it will be difficult because it has been in operation for a long time. Pakistan spends more than necessary on its defense forces. The Pakistani Army has ruled Pakistan for more than half the time since 1947 and has a lot of power in security and foreign policy.

Pakistani Army has created a network of foundations and trusts that own everything in Pakistan. The Pakistani Army owns the banks, one-third of heavy industry, and 7% of total private assets. First, they earn, then they amend the law to benefit themselves. The army has both power and money. You will never see a poor country's army so rich. There is widespread unrest in Pakistan over subsidized wheat , with people lining up for hours and even chasing trucks to get wheat. Floods in 2022 submerged one-third of the country causing losses of around $ 30 billion. Pakistan is experiencing blackouts , which China is partly responsible for because it halted work on CPEC (China-Pakistan Economic Corridor) Pakistan has two options : either they can ask for help from another country or turn to the IMF. Pakistan leaders have already taken 13 loans from the IMF and have not been able to repay any of them. Giving a loan to a government is considered the safest thing in the world. Only Pakistan is a country where giving a loan is not without risk as it is never returned.
