

this solution can raise blood glucose levels to a high value, causing hyperglycemia. These solutions have a lower osmolarity than the blood, which implies a lower concentration of solutes in the fluid. Because of this, osmosis causes water to move from the extracellular to the intracellular space. When this occurs, the cell can swell up to the point of rupture.

Preview from Notesale.co.uk
Page 4 of 4