

Data Types vs. Abstract Data Types

Neso Academy

Preview from Notesale.co.uk
Page 1 of 3

In our journey towards learning data structures , we first have to understand the difference between data types and abstract data types. A data type defines a certain domain of values but also defines what operations are allowed on those values. In contrast to primitive data types, there is a concept of user defined data