

a bit of a personal question right I mean maybe you're living in secret with your boyfriend or girlfriend who knows. If you 've got a pet talk about your pet and we have a dog and a cat who lives with us too great now the next common question about homes is about often decoration.

I 'm studying English at the University of da-da-dah. My favorite room I would say is my bedroom and in my bedroom I 've got a simple table and chair from Ikea actually. I have got two paintings hanging on the wall one is a portrait and one is landscape. I also have to write reports for my students just two or three things. What would you like to change about your job what are the activities in your job you do n't like and you would change if you could write so here you may say something like well I 'm not a big fan of mm-hmm if I could I would change that it would be great to outsource that to somebody else actually but all in all you know I enjoy my job. Remember that the examiner does n't care so long as you are able to talk about stuff that 's what matters. In a normal conversation can you say well as I mentioned before I 'm studying biology and it 's really interesting so you're repeating but paraphrasing a little bit in a polite acceptable way. Do n't insult your examiner it's not a good idea right and then they may skip or move on often they ask you not always but often why did you choose that subject now here maybe you chose it so say why maybe your parents chose it you can explain that okay you may want to say something like to tell you the truth.
