

TEENAGE PREGNANCY

In 2022, the Philippines increases 5.4% of women age 15–19 years have been pregnant. Teenagers walking around with pumps, carrying a child, broken and judged by so many people, but the question is why? Is it really a blessing in disguise? Most of us have our own way of viewing things from our own perspectives, such as how we consider pregnancy. Good morning, everyone. This is quite a sensitive topic, especially to us teenagers. Today, teenage pregnancy is a top controversy in the country; there are ways to prevent the cases from increasing and many advices and discussions to make the students understand 'planning and right time'. As a teenager we know some are saving their purity for their future and some are not. Lack of sex education in the Philippines, Dep Ed should prepare sex education in high school. Lack of information about sexual and reproductive health and rights. Parents would rather forbid their children to have sex than to have safe sex. No separation of church and state when it comes to reproductive health laws. Lack of discussion about the use of contraceptive. Most of teenagers get pregnancy because of lack of sexual education. Inadequate access to services tailored to young people. In many cases girls perceive pregnancy to be a better option than continuing their education. Some guys are irresponsible and not yet ready to become a father that leads sometimes to abortion and miscarriage. In addition, the unique risks faced by girls during emergencies increase the chances of them becoming pregnant. Factors include the desire to compensate for the loss of child reduced access to information and contraception and increased sexual. As Dr. Jose Rizal said "NA SA KABATAAN ANG PAG-ASA NG BAYAN" show some respect for the hero. Let's not waste everyone's sacrifices for our own want. Keep in mind that our family did their best to provide our needs. We need to secure our future for our own family. You are worth more than a trillion. Don't blot your purity just for a man who are not sure and see you as his bride. Don't think for a piece, think as a whole.
