

I agree with the thought of having a dream that is compared to having a high dream. We ought to dream and no one can take it from us. We have the freedom to choose our path, and it is our choice to dream deep or dream high. But, the passage advises us to dream with our emotions, as we want to focus on becoming something to help someone and not to accumulate something. Based on my opinion, I would say that the passage somehow changed my perspective, and will try to dream deeply. It is a time process because it will not be handy to just dream in depth however it can still go successful. Indeed, the passage shows how we can make our journey more valuable and worthy by just making a strong and concrete foundation for our dreams to grow. Then, that is how we sign our future. Just, imagine a world full of dreamers that desire to help our country to be the best version of itself. It is wonderful.
