

- Organs such as lungs, kidney, heart, stomach comprise specific proportion and pattern of all basic type of tissue

- When two or more organs perform a common function by their physical and chemical interaction, they together form an organ system.

