

A short essay on "Should women go out to work"

OPEN University Colombo

Word range (150-200)

"Should women go out to work"

In the Modern world, women are playing an important role in the society. They take the leading position in every field in the society. Today most of the women go out to work. As they are educated enough to understand the prevailing social issues they tend to engage in an employment which helps to uplift their economy and positive social backgrounds. However this situation has given rise to many social, economic and cultural issues. There are advantages and disadvantages of this situation which is to be considered in a broader level.

As the cost of living has gone high up to the sky level, a family is unable to depend on one income. Realising this situation, women come forward to fill the gap offering an additional income to the family. In today's society, women get a good education in every field and this situation makes them skilful and clever in many fields. As a result, women are professionally qualified and this gives them more and more opportunities to engage in employments. On the other hand, if the women don't have this kind of opportunities it would be a wastage of human resources. And a country will lose their contribution towards the development of the society, economic and cultural aspects.

How ever women's employment makes many problems in the home affairs. When they go out to work, they have to neglect the home affairs which must be under their concern. For example neglecting children is one of the main problems that has been rising in a few. Without mother's love and affection children's mental condition may vary negatively. This condition leads up to increase the emotional and physical problems in them. Not only that but women's employment leads to broken families too which badly affect the social conditions in a country. This also happens because of negligence of their home affairs.

It is true that an additional income helps a family to a certain extent. But considering the negative effects of it, it is better to be at home engaging in domestic affairs contributing her service to the betterment of her children, society and finally it is stressed that the woman can contribute much to the whole world than doing a job.