

Qualities of a Good Scientist

To be a good scientist, one must have the following qualities:-

1. He must be a good observer of the things and changes in his environment.
2. He must have the mind of inquiry and be inquisitive.
3. He carries out test and experiments.
4. He must be a good record keeper (he) he keeps a record of his work.
5. He must be hardworking and patient.

THE SCIENTIFIC METHOD

Scientists use well planned step-by-step method to solve problems. This is known as the scientific method. It involves the following steps or process.