

Mosche

Is a professional programmer with two teenage children whose School doesn't offer programming classes. He has volunteered To run a monthly after- school programming club, and while he Frequently give presentations to colleagues, he has no Experience designing lessons. He wants learn how to build Effective lessons in collaboration with others, and is interested In turning his lessons into a self- paced online course.

Samira

Is an undergraduate in robotics who is thinking about Becoming full - time teacher after she graduates. She wants to Help teach weekend workshops for undergraduate women, but Has never taught an entire class before, and feels Uncomfortable teaching things that she's not feels Wants to learn more about education in general in order to Decide if it's for her.

Gene

Is a professor of computer science whose research area