

shows him as dishonest, weak and immature. He then commits a shameful act, despite it being in Eva's favour. He steals fifty pounds - which was a lot in 1920 - from his father's office. Although this was in Eva's aid, it was still a very selfish and irresponsible. All in all Priestley is quite successful in exploring the idea of responsibility, through the characters and using dramatic techniques.

Preview from Notesale.co.uk
Page 3 of 3