

The aims of Innovation

- Developing products which have a unique selling point, allowing a business to differentiate itself from the competition and earn higher profit margins.
- Developing better quality products which meet customer needs more successfully.
- Developing more efficient ways of producing to reduce the cost per unit therefore increasing the profit margin.