

mother towards the husband. The word "still" shows the element of continuity.

There is a simile in "death", "hang on like death" which indicates that there is no escape from his father, an everlasting relation. The word "whisky", is an descriptive image. There is a metaphor in "make time", in which he compares time to a person to show the memory will last in his mind strongly. The tone of the poet is nostalgic, longing for his father, this is shown through words like ".....", ".....".

The setting of the poem is in the house of the poet where he was young (not elegant, not Luxourious). As for the rhythm, the poet uses very short words (monolysilabic) which indicate that the sound is happy. The sound in the poem conveys the happiness state as the ending rhyme ab, ab, there is alliteration in the hand that held, it gives a low and gentle movement.
