

87. A production system that processes many different jobs through the system at the same time in groups is known as

- a. a project system
- b. a batch production system
- c. a continuous production system
- d. a craft production system

(Medium)

88. The highly automated production system that is typically associated with the production of highly standardized, high-volume, commodity products is

- a. continuous production
- b. mass production
- c. batch production
- d. craft production

(Medium)

89. Which of the following products is most likely to be produced using a continuous production system?

- a. refined oil
- b. chemicals
- c. televisions
- d. paints

(Easy)

90. A machine shop is an example of which type of production system

- a. project oriented system
- b. batch production system
- c. mass production system
- d. continuous production system

(Easy)

91. Products made in anticipation of demand are known as

- a. assemble-to-order products
- b. make-to-order products
- c. make-to-stock products
- d. build-to-order products

(Medium)

92. Banking and retailing are typical examples of

- a. a professional service
- b. a service shop
- c. a mass service
- d. a service factory

(Medium)

93. Schools and hospitals are typical examples of